EXPERIENCE. At Davis Theatre Tonight and Tomor row Night-Seats Now Selling.

Experience, George V. Hobart's modern morality comedy-drama, which William Elliott, F. Ray Comalock and Morris Gest announce for an engagement at the Davis theatre of two nights, Monday and Tuesday, May 15 and 16, tonight and tomorrow night, has made a remarkable record in New England, and one which no other high class organization has ever enjoyed, After the five months' sensational success in Boston, the play was booked for a very limited engagement through the Gray of the garb of the aesthecic posts, in which they appear rediculously awknown to the complete the five months' sensational success in Boston, the play was booked for a very limited engagement through the garb of the aesthecic posts, in which they appear rediculously awknown to the play was booked for a very limited engagement through the garb of the aesthecic posts, in which they appear rediculously awknown the demand for the play to be given in the demand for the play to be given in the larger cities of New Togland that Messrs. Elliott, Comstock and Gest had to cancel all bookings outside of New England, and Experience has now played in New England for an entire year, including of course the Boston run. It will not be possible to vicit Grosvenor's appearance that he compels him to discard his aesthetic dress and manner and henceforth to be in man.

It will not be possible to visit nearly one-quarter of the cities that are anxious to see Experience this season, as in many of the cities where the play has been given it has been necessary to go back for two and three weeks, which is something that never before has been heard of in New England.

This success, which has made new theatrical history in New England, is due to the wonderful drawing power and appeal of Experience as well as to the fact that the original New York-Bouton organization has played all the New England on engagements, and that the producers of Experience have had the good judgment to refuse to send out a second class cast.

Among the notable players in the New York-Boston Experience organization who will be seen in New England are: Wanda Carlyle, May Mc-Minua, Conrad Nagle, John Todd, Emment C. King, Mande Allan, Marion Holcombe, Ebba Andrus, Harry Buchmann, Sally McCombs, Marge Keyal, Maude Furniss, Al Collins, Oliver Hinsdell, Charles Haskins, Duncan Harris, Peggy O'Keefe, Vera Leonard, Marie Sinclair, Charles Hins, George Seybolt, Alba de Anchoriz, Frazer Toulter, J. W. Cahill, William Dupont, Ileien Cill, Doris Moore, George T. Merch and George Berry. The stage will be under the direction of Edwin Silton, Moe Risch will conduct the orthesia. There are still plenty of definable seats left for both Monday and Tuesday, So if you contemplate going jet your tickets now.

In the rural decorations which are planned for the occasion there will be used 30 bales of hay, a wagon load of corn stalks, four dozen pumpkin moonshines and as a finishing touch to the decorative scheme there will be a large chicken coop on the stage filled with real live fowl.

At the Auditorium for the first two days of this week and will neclude a particularly well balanced will with the work of three different notion picture producers represented. The feature will be the five-reel Paramount, the Foundling, one of the most sweet-public for the planned for the occasion there will be lasted of they are said as a finishing touch to the decorative scheme there will be a large chicken coop on the stage filled with real live fowl.

These are only a few of the things that are planned. Many of the most amusing features will not be made public but will be sprung as surprises on that evening. Tickets for the barn dance are on sale at Dunn's, Smith's Ring & Sisk's and Bray's drug stores and by members of the council. They are selling freely and the outlook is for a bumper house.

Merchants' Week is to be a gala week

Merchants' Week is to be a gala week for Norwich. Special inducements, special attractions. The city will undoubtedly be crowded with a horde of visitors in search of both. On Wednesday night the production of Gilbert and Sullivan's beautiful aesthetic opera, "Parlence," at the Davis theatre, will be a big attraction.

A large chorus, beautiful costumes, and delightful music will be seen and heard. Sir Arthur Sullivan has never been equalled as a composer of light opera and "Patience" is one of his best. A brief synopsis will be of great interest.

Reginald Bunthorne, an English No-bleman and apostle of the Aesthetic Cult, is extravagantly admired by a following of rapturous maiden who have forgotten their devotion of a year ag, to the Dragoon Guards. He is to ally indifferent to their attention, but in love with Patience, the village Patience knows nothing of love until she meets Greavener, the friend of her wouth, new a man of wonderful beau-ty, madly loved at first sight by every woman he meets.

The rapturous maidens desert Bunthorne and presistently follow Grostience avoids his persistent attentions. Grosvenor appears as a matter-of-fact young man still followed by the young ladies, now wearing modern dresses and dancing cheerfully around the stage.

Patience, while much surprised at his changed manner finds no further reason to prevent loving him with all the fervor at her command. The milient from anything ever before held in Norwich. And it looks now as though the committee would make good these assurances.
